ERZBERGER IS GIVEN SUPPORT

tory Touching Wilson Promises Is Confirmed.

MERICAN CREDITS ASSURED GERMANY

She Will Accept the Allied Peace Terms.

ount Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, Former German Foreign Minister, Tells of Visits of Alleged Agents to Germany.

[BY FRANK E. MASON.]
(Copyright by the I. N. S.)

Berlin, Feb. 23.—The declaration of Dr. Mathias Erzberger, former German minister of finance, that President Wilson sent two emissaries to Berlin to promise American credits in the form of a loan to Germany if Germany would accept the allied peace terms, was confirmed today by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, former German foreign minister.

Ellis Loring Dresel, the United States commissioner to Germany, as named by Dr. Erzberger as one of the agents of President Wilson. hen Mr. Dresel was asked about e incident, he replied:

"I have nothing to say to the ess upon this subject."

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau as foreign minister at the time t Dresel came to Berlin, in the ring of 1919. The foreign minister and Dr. Erzberger were bitter political opponents and it was Erzberger who broke down Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's opposition to s policies and virtually accomplished the signing of the peace eaty.

In his exclusive interview with e International News service, confirming Erzberger's statements, unt von Brockdorff-Rantzau said at Mr. Dresel came to him with e same proposition he had laid fore Erzberger.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's atement follows:

"When the history is written of e incidents of the armistice and e preliminaries to the peace treaty, will be necessary to consider any personalities who, on official d pretended official commissions, sited official and unofficial Germans. History will develop that ese more or less authorized ents exercised influence neither the interests of Germany nor orld peace.

"It is known that Erzberger and I ere political opponents. Nevertheless, I must confirm that what Dr. rzberger said in his interview about r. Dressel is entirely correct. Either Mr. Dressel was directly commanded by President Wilson ould not then confirm, but at least r. Dressel attempted to create the mpression that he came to Berlin on an official mission.

"Mr. Dressel made statements to e about President Wilson's friendly ittude towards Germany. If Germany would sign the peace treaty, milar to those made to Erzberger. did not consider Mr. Dressel's atements sufficient to cause me to ke the slightest change in my olitical viewpoint. On the contrary, I informed Mr. Dressel that ermany was determined to negotiate on the basis of the fourteen nts and I, as director of Germany's foreign affairs, must refuse change our basis on either private official statements.

"Mr. Dressel spoke in mysterious d ominous insinuations, as if he s less interested in negotiating an informing himself of Germany's ntiment and ascertaining how Germany would react to a peace by ce. Therefore, I officially and privately advised the Germans to prudent to avoid giving Mr. Dressel the impression that Germany ould submit to any form of a dicted peace."

DRY FORCES WIN A HOUSE BATTLE

Get $1,400,000 To Break Up Liquor Traffic.

BITTER SPEECHES PRECEDE THE VOTE

Charged There Are More Wets Than Drys Among Dry Enforcement Officers.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The friends of prohibition enforcement in the lower house won another battle to keep liquor beyond the reach of those not permitted to handle or drink it. They put through a motion directing conferes on the deficiency bill to give the government $1,400,000 to break up the liquor traffic from now until July 1. It was the top figure discussed.

Before the vote was taken, however, charges flew fast. Chairman Good of the appropriations committee declaring enforcement agents openly are winking at the laws violation. Representative Volstead, author of the act, came back with the charge that attempt was being made to break down the machinery of enforcement through failure to provide adequate appropriations.

Others jumped into the fray, and for an hour it was much like the old days of prohibition fighting in congress. Calling Wayne Wheeler, general counsel for the Anti-Saloon league, by name, Good declared every champion of prohibition believed there were too many men on the rolls of the internal revenue bureau who were winking at violation of the law.

"I have talked with Wayne Wheeler, who sends his commission to this house, where men nod to him as they nod to Samuel Gompers and vote money out of the treasury whether they want it or not," Mr. Good declared. "Mr. Wheeler will tell you the same thing he has told me that there are more wets than drys in the bureau, and yet he comes and demands that you vote more money for them."

Senate and house conferees agreed on the senate bill limiting immigration during the next year to three per cent. of the number in the United States at the time the 1910 census was taken.

House provisions in the agricultural bill allowing $367,000 for the annual congressional distribution of free seeds were struck out in the senate. Senator Harrison led a fight for retention of the appropriation but did not force a roll call.

In direct charge of the enforcement of the provisions of the Cooper act. The position pays $5,000 a year and traveling expenses. In announcing the appointment, the governor emphasized that local officials throughout Ohio will be held strictly responsible for carrying out, in "letter and spirit," Ohio's "dry" laws.

P. Maynard, clerk of the house of representatives, by O. K. Shiman, Columbus, secretary and manager of the Ohio board of commerce.

The petitions, all alike, signed by 2,312 Ohio employers, read:

"The undersigned employers of Ohio, ask that the workmen's compensation law be changed so that the state fund may be placed upon a sound basis and that Ohio employers be given the right and privilege to meet their obligations under the workmen's compensation law, either by carrying their own risks or insuring them with reputable companies under proper regulation and control, or continue with the state fund."

The Ohio Manufacturers' association and the Ohio federation of labor, it is said, will resist all efforts to make any radical changes in the compensation act.

Chairman Volstead issued the call for the meeting of the committee, today, after an informal conference with several members of the committee, who insisted that the gravity of an impeachment charge, no matter the nature of the evidence, demanded prompt action, by the committee either in dismissal of the matter, or in ordering a thorough investigation.

Meanwhile, deputies of the sheriff's office are continuing the grilling of suspects held in connection with the case. A youth, living about two miles from the scene of the crime, is to be taken to the place, this afternoon and there, in the hearing of deputies and farmers of Parma township, grilled as to his knowledge of the affair.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE IN CANAL

When Auto Carries Party into Water.

TRAGEDY OF NIGHT SOUTH OF DAYTON

Three Guests of Cincinnati Doctor Rescued by Him—The Woman's Body Recovered.

Dayton, Feb. 23.—Miss Lulu Davis, No. 318 west Court street, Cincinnati, was drowned and her body found two miles below the scene of the accident, when an automobile driven by Dr. L. M. Githens, No. 47 Main street, Elmwood, Cincinnati, plunged into the Miami & Erie canal, ten miles south of Dayton, late last night. Dr. Githens was able to rescue Miss Anna Uber, No. 1739 Elmore street, Cincinnati, Dr. Julius Robinson, Seventh Avenue hotel, and Dr. L. Plow, No. 518 west Seventh street, Cincinnati.

The party had come from Cincinnati, in the afternoon, for a visit with Githens' relatives at West Carrollton. Then they came to Dayton and were on their way back home when the steering gear locked, throwing the car into the mud by the side of the canal. It slipped into the water and overturned. Dr. Githens, in the meantime, tearing off the curtains and getting the others out, but not until they were in the water. He had Miss Davis to the surface once, but the overturned car made such suction that she was drawn from his arms.

"Some parts of several plants operated today, but most plants will open up through the week. We will be busy, I believe, and things should pick up from now on."

HARDING BUSY WITH ADDRESS

Bulk of Cabinet Worries Are Behind Him.

INAUGURATION IS EIGHT DAYS AWAY

Only Four Real Working Days Are Left.

President-Elect Has Masses of Data on Many of the Subjects Which May Be Touched on in Inaugural Address.

St. Augustine, Florida, Feb. 23.—President-Elect Harding denied himself to all callers, today and spent the entire morning working on his inaugural address and clearing up accumulated correspondence.

The stream of visitors, which, for the last few weeks, has flowed into St. Augustine to see the president-elect diminished, today.

Mr. Harding held no conferences during the morning. Later in the day he planned to see Walter Brown, of Toledo, one of the prominent Republican leaders in Ohio politics.

Herbert Hoover's appointment as secretary of commerce is regarded in St. Augustine as settled.

Inaugural Address.

St. Augustine, Florida, Feb. 23.—Having put the bulk of his cabinet worries behind him, temporarily at least, President-Elect Harding planned, today, to devote the biggest part of his remaining time in Florida to preparation of his inaugural address, now but eight days from delivery. Only four real working days remain of the president-elect's vacation in the South. He will probably start for the North the first of next week and from then until he is inaugurated, he will be so on the move that there will be little time for uninterrupted work.

Senator Harding has masses of data on most of the subjects which he will touch upon in his address. These have been left with him by visitors and some of the advisers with whom he has conferred during his month's sojourn in the South. It is not expected that Senator Harding will attempt to go deeply into the international situation in his address leaving that to be dealt with at a later time, probably in a special message to the new, sixty-seventh congress, which will assemble early in April.

So far as surface indications point, in St. Augustine, the cabinet is closed up. There is one possible exception—that of the labor portfolio, for which James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania and Illinois, is the foremost candidate.

It was learned, today, however, that friends of James Duncan, of the Granite Cutters' union, who comes from Massachusetts, have increased their efforts in his behalf and if there is a change, between now and March 4, in the cabinet which Senator Harding has tentatively selected, it is believed it will most likely take place in this department.

The labor portfolio has been the most bitterly contested place among the ten. Labor leaders and union heads have vied with one another in insisting upon the appointment of this or that candidate and many of them have protested against Davis' selection, on the grounds that Davis has been out of labor circles so long that he can not be considered a "labor man." Senator Harding has [illegible] sympathy in those circles, but has held his own counsel.

Vote Over Tie.

New York, Feb. 23.—Senator Calder, formally declared the post of secretary of commerce to be open and ordered more than 1,000 clerks, during their business hours, to vote, and upon unanimous vote of either would have his appointment. It was learned that Senator Calder did not submit the names of Frederick C. Howe and Professor Ripley, but requested the employees that they send endorsements of Howe and Ripley themselves out of the limited list.

Hoover denied himself to callers, today, at his office on Lower Broadway, but he was understood to be getting his work in such shape that he can leave other tasks for unimportant duties within a fortnight.

GARAGE BURNS; $125,000 LOSS

Hoch Motor Sales Company Has Spectacular Blaze.

ABOUT SEVENTY-FIVE AUTOS DESTROYED

Short Circuit in Electric Wiring Believed Cause.

Flames Spread Rapidly, Owing to Presence of Oil in the Building, Which Is Owned by Dr. A. A. Starner.

The worst fire Marion has had since the destruction of the Grand theater, December 6, 1916, started in the vulcanizing room at the garage of the Hoch Motor Sales company on south Main street a few minutes after 11 o'clock this morning, and resulted in the practical destruction of the building and about all of the contents.

The loss is estimated at more than $125,000 and is mostly covered by insurance.

The blaze was first discovered coming out of a window at the alley on the north side of the building, this window being from the vulcanizing room just at the rear of the office. George Sprague, who has a stall at the Miller market, and Elmer Salter, local express agent, who happened to be passing, discovered the blaze about the same time and informed the parties connected with the garage who were at work in the office.

Joseph Maxwell, Paul Hoch and James Lott had been working in the office and Frank Weber returned from the bank about two minutes previous and was putting some books in the safe when the word was given. The men at once secured fire extinguishers and rushed to put out the fire, but like a flash it spread over the building and they were driven out.

Spreads Too Rapidly.

Salter, who has his machine in the garage, made an effort to get it out, but the blaze spread too rapidly.

James Lott managed to get the sedan of Henry True, which was in front, out of the building and, with the assistance of G. W. Slatzer, ran a new car from the building, but this was in flames before it reached the street. The back of Slatzer's coat was burned out and his hands were badly burned. Maxwell went to the rear to open the back door and rescue some machines, but the flames cut his efforts short.

The alarm of fire called departments Nos. 1 and 2 and a second alarm brought department No. 3. One of the engines was put into pumping service and every fireman from both shifts was on hand assisting in the work of fighting the fire. Nine lines of hose were laid, but the oil in the garage made the fighting of the fire a hard task.

Mass of Flames.

As near as can be estimated by the men in charge of the garage, there were in the neighborhood of seventy-five machines in the building that were destroyed. Of this number four were new ones that belonged to the garage owners and they also had twenty or more other machines.

The garage was a mass of flames on the inside when the departments arrived on the scene and the firemen fought the blaze from all sides. Then came many explosions which resembled the firing of small cannon. Some of these were from bursting tires, while others were from automobile tanks which caused the flames to shoot high into the air. The blaze soon went through the roof and it collapsed, the large steel girders twisting and going down and causing the upper parts of the walls of both sides near the rear to go in and also the back wall.

Short Circuit Cause.

The origin of the fire is attributed to a short circuit in the electric wiring. There was no fire of any kind in the vulcanizing room, as the vulcanizing man was not working today. This room is partitioned off with a frame partition from the storage room and is next to the office. Just outside the door of this room was a barrel of gasoline and [illegible] radiator and it is supposed that the explosion of [illegible] the rapid spread of the fire.

The men who were in the office carried out a number of safes and the records and removed them to a place of safety. While the firemen were fighting the flames on the garage, they also had to keep water on the wall of the building occupied by the Schaffner Furniture company just across the alley to the north. Some of the windows were cracked by the heat, but the blaze was held down fairly well on the south side of the garage where the firemen had some advantage by throwing water through the windows, while most of the south side was a solid wall.

House Is Damaged.

The frame residence owned by L. Durfee, almost against the garage on the south side, and occupied by the shop of Charles McCombs and as a dwelling by his mother, was vacated by the occupants and the furniture moved out. The flames shot over the roof of the house a number of times, but because of the time of loss prevented [illegible] from the solid wall of the garage [illegible]

[illegible] after the fire was reported people [illegible] many [illegible] the crowd a safe distance [illegible] the fear of explosions [illegible] kept many back a safe [illegible] It was a little over an hour from the time the firemen started to throw water until they had the blaze subdued.

Dr. Starner's Loss $20,000.

The garage building is owned by Dr. A. A. Starner and he estimates the loss at over $20,000 and is covered by insurance. There is a probability that a number of persons who had their machines stored in the garage did not have insurance on them.

The H. Schaffner Furniture company was probably the heaviest loser of any of the patrons of the garage. The funeral car, the truck, a sedan and a touring car were all destroyed. The other firms of funeral directors in the city have volunteered to lend the Schaffner company any assistance so that their business will not be hampered.

Fred B. Scherff had driven his roadster to the garage a few minutes before the fire started and was to have it washed. As the car washer happened to be out at the time, he left it in front and this machine was saved.

Additional Loss.

In addition to the automobiles of the Hoch Motor Sales company that were destroyed, the company has a loss on tires and other stock that is estimated at $10,000. This loss is covered by insurance.

From a hasty review the patrons who lost their machines in the fire besides those already mentioned were Frank Weber, Carl Dilsaver, C. A. Thibaut, H. A. Stevens, Henry True, Elmer Salter, H. Doolittle, Albert St. Germain, John Fairbanks, Barney Beutlin, George Raub, Mr. Hughes, of Prospect, and Frank Gruber. There are probably a few others whose machines could not be recognized or were covered by parts of the falling roof.

Clifford Hoch, one of the proprietors and general manager of the Hoch Motor Sales company, is in the City hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis. The city firemen were complimented by many for confining the blaze to the garage. It was called to the attention of some of the firemen and police officers that people in automobiles were driving over the line of hose across Church street. An officer soon put a stop to this and arrests of some of the violators may follow.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS' COUNCIL GETS NOTE

American Message Refers to Yap and Other Mandates.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The United States' note to the league of nations, asking that American opinion be consulted before final action is taken upon the Mesopotamian and Yap island mandate, was handed to the council of the league of nations today by Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador to France.

[America's interest in the Mesopotamian mandate, which has been granted to Great Britain, arises from a desire to give American oil enterprises a share in the exploitation of the rich oil fields in that district. The Yap island mandate was granted to Japan, but America has entered a protest because she seeks control of the cable station on Yap island. This station controls the United States-Philippines cable.]

M'ADOO TALKS OF LOANS MADE

Would Make No Further Loans to Europe.

REGARDS IT BAD PEACE-TIME POLICY

Former Rail Director Declares Railroads Are Going from Bad to Worse.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, in commenting on the foreign loan situation today, said that since March, 1920, he has strongly opposed the granting of further loans to foreign governments.

"As early as March, 1920, I believed it to be a bad peace-time policy to make further loans," McAdoo said. "I take full responsibility for the loans which I made, however and I believe that this nation should fulfil the promises which it made prior to March, 1920, for I believe it is honor bound to make payments on credits already established."

Speaking of the question of railroads, McAdoo charged that "a vicious propaganda" had been carried on to secure the return of the railroads to private control and he declared that the present conditions of the railroads shows that "government operation was more efficient than private operation."

"The railroads are going from bad to worse," McAdoo said.

He declared that the Cummins-Esch bill had created "gratuities" for the railroads, for "which they are now reaching out to grab" and that the American people have been "baited" to establish these funds for the railroads.

"It is folly to make the American people give the railroads a six-per-cent. return upon valuations fixed, which do not represent the service performed," McAdoo said. "Adequate rates for adequate service performed," McAdoo said should be the standard.

"Higher freight and passenger rates have not helped the railway situation," McAdoo said. "Advances in rates have largely benefited those carriers in the more prosperous class, but very little help has been given under them to the weaker lines.

"Higher rates mean less business handled," said McAdoo. "Rates should be maintained that will act as a stimulant to industry, not as a check.

"Present rates, for example, are running some New England industries out of business. Such industries are unable to compete with similar industries located in other parts of the country.

"The roads are wading into the treasury for all they can get and won't be stopped until the American people begin to think clearly on this problem again and force measures to stop such raids on the taxpayers' money."

Shoots a Youth.

Cincinnati, Feb. 23.—Claiming that a snowball thrown by one of three boys broke his windshield, an automobile driver, last night, shot and seriously wounded Wilbur Ironmonger, sixteen, Woodward High school student. WOUNDED VETERANS IN A SORRY PLIGHT

Legion Officials Plan To Hold Public Meetings.

New York, Feb. 23.—Charles E. Blakeslee, state commander of the American Legion, announced appointment of a committee headed by Cornelius W. Wickersham to hold public meetings in this city regarding treatment of wounded ex-service men.

On completing its hearings, the committee will report to the legion's state executive committee, with recommendations as to what action shall be taken by congress, the state or other agencies to remedy "crying evils alleged now to exist." The first hearing will be held in the hall of records next Friday, and it is expected nonemployment of ex-service men will receive attention.

"Many of these men, now on the streets, after having served to their chief the country we all love, are in destitute condition," said Commander Blakeslee. "Numbers of them have died in poorhouses, some of the demented even in jails. Many are housed in unsanitary and unsafe so-called 'hospitals.' The increase in the number of tuberculosis cases and the lack of facilities therefor is astounding. The slowness with which justifiable complaints are dealt with is criminal."

REDS HALT ALLIED ARMY NEAR VILNA

Wireless Employed To Keep Force from City.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The Russian Bolshevik government has halted the league of nations army which had been assigned to go to Vilna and supervise the plebiscite there to determine whether the city shall be Polish or Lithuanian. The city is the capital of Lithuania. The Bolsheviki want to keep the league of nations from sending in an army to supervise the plebiscite on the ground that such action would be virtual intervention in favor of Poland.

The league army first tried to get to Vilna through Switzerland. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Russia wirelessed orders to Swiss radicals, who brought pressure on the government and forced it to refuse the army passage through the country. The troops then tried to pass through Italy. Again the Moscow wireless sent orders and the Italian radicals blocked action by Italy. Roumania, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia in turn were compelled through the threats of their radicals to turn the league army back.

The league of nations council may decide on action this week to compel the member countries to give its troops passage.

ABOLITION OF EXCESS PROFITS TAX NEEDED

One Reflex of Foreign Investments Is Emphasized.

J. E. PHILLIPS ADDRESSES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Recent Visitor to Orient Tells of His Experiences and Observations.

Abolition of the excess profits tax on earnings on foreign investments is necessary if American foreign credit is to be extended, according to James E. Phillips, who today told members of the chamber of commerce of his trip to the Orient. Mr. Phillips addressed the weekly noon luncheon of the organization in the Y. M. C. A. building. He stated this tax tends to discourage Americans from making foreign investments.

An interesting account of his trip was given by Mr. Phillips, who told of the various cities he visited and their chief points of interest. His talk dealt principally with Japan and the treatment accorded American tourists by the Japanese. He said the Japanese are very cordial toward Americans and receive them very graciously. There was no talk of war heard in that country, Mr Phillips said.

Surrounded by Reporters.

When the party landed at Nagaski, Mr. Phillips said he registered from Marion, and soon had a corps of newspaper correspondents, asking him for interviews, taking the view that the party was in Japan to secure information for President-Elect Harding.

Talking of the California-Japanese controversy, Mr Phillips said he does not think that it will result seriously and stated he believes this is one of the first things Mr. Harding will set out to settle as soon as he takes office. He also expressed the opinion that the Californians do not appreciate the work of the Japanese on the Pacific coast.

JUDGE M'GANNON ISSUES STATEMENT

Will Resign from Bench Early in March.

Cleveland, Feb. 23.—William H. McGannon, chief justice of the Cleveland municipal court, recently acquitted of the murder of Harold C. Kagy, will resign from the bench on or before March 15, he announced in a statement today.

"With a deep conviction of my own innocence of all charges brought against me, I consider it the better part of manhood to retire to private life," the judge declared. "I am convinced that anything whether well founded or ill founded, which involves the name of a judge in unfavorable comment or criticism, is hurtful to the bench as a whole."

The judge's resignation was asked by a committee of the Cleveland Bar association, following his acquittal.

SAYS HATFIELD SHOOTS FIRST

Star Witness of State on the Witness Stand.

DEFENDANT TURNS TO SIDE OF STATE

Says Killing of Detectives at Matewan Is Long Premeditated by Hatfield.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamson, W. Va. Feb 23.—Dread of the "double cross" drove Isaac Brewer to desert the cause of his nineteen codefendants and today, made him take the witness stand against them in the "trigger trial."

He said so, under cross-examination.

As he lay in the hospital recovering from two gunshot wounds received in the "battle of Matewan," someone told him that "some of the boys" were going to swear he killed Albert Felts, he said. This would mean "for me to be hanged, and the rest of the boys to go free," he added.

So he told, under oath, today, a story widely different from three other stories he has told counsel for the defense in private examinations.

He fired the first shot on Sid Hatfield, instead of Albert Felts. And whenever J. J. Conniff, in two hours of grilling, confronted the ex-defendant with his previous stories, the witness smiled and said: "That was only a tale I told you—I wasn't under oath then."

He stuck by his today's story, but he will be recalled to the stand for further grilling.

Veteran On Stand.

A war veteran, decorated hero of five big battles in France, testified for the state, in the afternoon, as to his part in the two minute's bullet exchange at Matewan.

The witness, Captain G. W. Anderson, a Baldwin-Felts detective, had a miraculous escape from death.

He was shot in the shoulder, the bullet coming out of the chest. He had no weapon with which to defend himself. With him, half carrying him, escaped his twin brother, also a war veteran.

The captain, a clean-cut type, showing eleven years of life in the regular army, testified he saw the first shot fired: "I saw the blaze," he said, "and Felts fell."

He said he heard Hatfield say to Felts, just before the shooting: "We'll walk down here where we can talk."

Later, with blood gushing from his shoulder and chest, the witness dragged himself to the train that was just leaving Matewan. His twin brother shoved him into a Pullman. The last they heard was someone saying: "There goes two of the dogs."

Brewer on Stand.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamson, W. Va., Feb. 23.—A man from whom the threat of the hangman's rope was removed on the second day of the "trigger trial," was placed on the witness stand, today, by the state, to testify against nineteen men in whose midst he sat in "defendants' row," when the case opened, five weeks ago today.

He is Isaac Brewer, a Matewan miner. The indictment, charging him with the murder of Albert C. Felts, was nolled just before the jury was sworn in. He has since been closely guarded. He is regarded as the state's star of stars.

Brewer had scarcely been on the stand a few minutes when he plunged into a story extremely damaging to his former codefendants—and particularly Sid Hatfield.

Brewer was not only an eyewitness, but a victim of the Matewan gun battle. He was wounded twice.

One of the first statements he made under oath was that Sid Hatfield, chief of police of Matewan and principal defendant, said to him Brewer, before the battle: "Let's take a bunch of men and go to the hills and kill all of those Baldwin-Felts men as they come out of the houses."

He referred to the houses from which union miners and their families were evicted by Felts detectives. Seven of these detectives were killed in the gun battle.

Quotes Hatfield.

Brewer quoted Hatfield as making remarks bitterly hostile to Mayor C. C. Testerman, of Matewan, who was killed in the battle. He said Sid threatened to kill the mayor.

"Sid. Hatfield," Brewer testified, "told me Testerman wouldn't issue any warrants for the arrest of those Felts men.

He ended by saying "I'll be d—— if I don't cut him in two with a bullet."

Sid. Hatfield sat at the table of counsel for the defense, smiling. He looked at Brewer with eyes that expressed nothing but amusement. He rested his head on his left arm, his hand behind his ear, so as to catch every syllable of what Brewer was saying. A few feet from Sid. sat his wife. She was Testerman's widow. Sid. married her nine days after the gun battle. Mrs. Hatfield, too smiled. Her eyes switched constantly from the witness to her husband. The rest of the defendants literally hung on Brewer's lips. Their faces were pallid grim. Many of the accused had their wives sitting beside them.

"Just about a minute before the shooting started," said Brewer, "Sid Hatfield put his hands up to my ears and said: 'Get a kill every 5—— one of them.'"

Asked what his answer was the witness declared he told Sid he would not do it. "It would mean the death of too many men."

"Sid. Hatfield shot Albert Felts with a pistol—I saw him fire the shot," Brewer swore. Sid Hatfield's shot which hit Felts was the first shot of the battle, Brewer testified.

With Hatfield.

Brewer was examined for the state by ex-Judge John S. Marcum, of Huntington. The witness is a tall loose-limbed youth, with black hair and blue eyes.

He told his story calmly. Only once did he turn his eyes to defendants' row. That was when the examiner asked him whether he knew all of the accused. He said he knew all but two.

Brewer is a cousin of ex-Judge James Damron, one of the leading special attorneys for the prosecution.

"You are the same Isaac Brewer who was indicted jointly with these defendants for the murder of Albert C. Felts?" was one of the first questions by Judge Marcum.

The witness lowered his eyes—it was almost a wince—for just a second. He let his tongue run over his lips, cleared throat, then answered clearly.

"Yes, sir."

It was a visible effort. But thenceforth he did not once show emotion of any sort.

Brewer said he went to Matewan on the battle date, at Sid Hatfield's behest. He said he, Brewer, was armed with two pistols. One of these was introduced in evidence and Brewer handled it, illustrating his story.

Under cross-examination by J. J. Conniff, Brewer admitted he had turned state's evidence because "somebody" had told him that "somebody" would swear he, Brewer, killed Albert Felts. He refused to give the name of his informant.

Brewer accused Bill Bowman, one of the defendants, of firing into Albert Felts as the latter, hit by Sid Hatfield, lay bleeding on the pavement. He said he did not know whether Felts was dead.

Bowman, he said, fired a shot into Felts' head.

"I saw his face bounce up," said the witness. "He was lying with his face against the wall.

"Bowman said as he shot, 'There—take that—d— you!'"

Used as Model.

Again the door behind Judge Robert D. Bailey's bench was used as a "model" for the entrance of Chambers' hardware store at Matewan, where the battle began.

The jury crowded around the bench as Brewer went over the story, placing himself in various positions.

Brewer's examination by the state lasted only an hour. J. J. Conniff, counsel for the defense, opened his cross-examination by placing in the record the witness' relationship to ex-Judge Damron. Brewer said he "had heard" he was also related to ex-Judge Marcum.

Then Conniff shot this question at the witness: "You heard that somebody was going to swear that you killed Albert Felts and therefore, you decided to give the testimony you gave here today—isn't that true?"

"Yes sir, it is."

GARAGE BURNS; $125,000 LOSS

Hoch Motor Sales Company Has Spectacular Blaze.

ABOUT SEVENTY-FIVE AUTOS DESTROYED

Short Circuit in Electric Wiring Believed Cause.

Flames Spread Rapidly, Owing to Presence of Oil in the Building, Which Is Owned by Dr. A. A. Starner.

The worst fire Marion has had since the destruction of the Grand theater, December 6, 1919, started in the vulcanizing room at the garage of the Hoch Motor Sales company on south Main street a few minutes after 11 o'clock this morning, and resulted in the practical destruction of the building and about all of the contents.

The loss is estimated at more than $125,000 and is mostly covered by insurance.

The blaze was first discovered coming out of a window at the alley on the north side of the building, this window being from the vulcanizing room just at the rear of the office. George Sprague, who has a stall at the Miller market, and Elmer Salter, local express agent, who happened to be passing, discovered the blaze about the same time and informed the parties connected with the garage who were at work in the office.

Joseph Maxwell, Paul Horn and James Lott had been working in the office and Frank Weber returned from the bank about two minutes previous and was putting some books in the safe when the word was given. The men at once secured fire extinguishers and rushed to put out the fire, but like a flash it spread over the building and they were driven out.

Spreads Too Rapidly.

Salter, who has his machine in the garage, made an effort to get it out, but the blaze spread too rapidly.

James Lott managed to get the sedan of Henry True, which was in front, out of the building and, with the assistance of G. W. Slatzer, ran a new car from the building, but this was in flames before it reached the street. The back of Slatzer's coat was burned out and his hands were badly burned. Maxwell went to the rear to open the back door and rescue some machines, but the flames cut his efforts short.

The alarm of fire called departments Nos. 1 and 2 and a second alarm brought department No. 3. One of the engines was put into pumping service and every fireman from both shifts was on hand assisting in the work of fighting the fire. Nine lines of hose were laid, but the oil in the garage made the fighting of the fire a hard task.

Mass of Flames.

As near as can be estimated by the men in charge of the garage, there were in the neighborhood of seventy-five machines in the building that were destroyed. Of this number four were new ones that belonged to the garage owners and they also had twenty or more other machines.

The garage was a mass of flames on the inside when the departments arrived on the scene and the firemen fought the blaze from all sides. Then came many explosions which resembled the firing of small cannon. Some of these were from bursting tires, while others were from automobile tanks which caused the flames to shoot high into the air. The blaze soon went through the roof and it collapsed, the large steel girders twisting and going down and causing the upper parts of the walls of both sides near the rear to go in and also the back wall.

Short Circuit Cause.

The origin of the fire is attributed to a short circuit in the electric wiring. There was no fire of any kind in the vulcanizing room, as the vulcanizing man was not working today. This room is partitioned off with a frame partition from the storage room and is next to the office. An outside door of the latter room was a barrel of alcohol with a gasoline radiator, and it is thought that the explosion of this caused the rapid spread of the fire.

The men who were in the office carried out a showcase of supplies and the records and retired to a place of safety. While the firemen were fighting the flames on the garage, they also had to keep water on the wall of the building occupied by the Schaffner Furniture company, just across the alley to the north. Some of the windows were cracked by the heat, but the blaze was held down fairly well on the north side of the garage where the firemen had some advantage by throwing water through the windows, while most of the south side was a solid wall.

House Is Damaged.

The frame residence owned by L. Durfee, almost against the garage on the south side, and occupied by the shop of Charles McCombs and as a dwelling by his mother, was vacated by the occupants and the furniture moved out. The flames shot over the roof of the house a number of times, but [illegible] Most of the goods were removed [illegible] the rear of the garage [illegible] the fire [illegible] the rear reached the [illegible] thousand people [illegible] a safe distance [illegible] the fear of explosions [illegible] kept many back a safe [illegible] It was a little over an [illegible] from the time the firemen started to throw water until they had the blaze subdued.

Dr. Starner's Loss $20,000.

The garage building is owned by Dr. A. A. Starner and he estimates the loss at over $20,000 and is covered by insurance. There is a probability that a number of persons who had their machines stored in the garage did not have insurance on them.

The H. Schaffner Furniture company was probably the heaviest loser of any of the patrons of the garage. The funeral car, the truck, a sedan and a touring car were all destroyed. The other firms of funeral directors in the city have volunteered to lend the Schaffner company any assistance so that their business will not be hampered.

Fred H. Scherff had driven his roadster to the garage a few minutes before the fire started and was to have it washed. As the car washer happened to be out at the time, he left it in front and this machine was saved.

Additional Loss.

In addition to the automobiles of the Hoch Motor Sales company that were destroyed, the company has a loss on tires and other stock that is estimated at $10,000. This loss is covered by insurance.

From a hasty review the patrons who lost their machines in the fire besides those already mentioned were Frank Weber, Carl Dilsaver, G. A. Thibaut, H. A. Stevens, Henry True, Elmer Salter, H. Donithen, Albert St. Germain, John Fairbanks, Barney Beutlin, George Raub, Mr. Hughes, of Prospect, and Frank Gruber. There are probably a few others whose machines could not be recognized or were covered by parts of the falling roof.

Clifford Hoch, one of the proprietors and general manager of the Hoch Motor Sales company, is in the City hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis. The city firemen were complimented by many for confining the blaze to the garage. It was called to the attention of some of the firemen and police officers that people in automobiles were driving over the line of hose across Church street. An officer soon put a stop to this and arrests of some of the violators may follow.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS' COUNCIL GETS NOTE

American Message Refers to Yap and Other Mandates.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The United States' note to the league of nations, asking that American opinion be consulted before final action is taken upon the Mesopotamian and Yap island mandate, was handed to the council of the league of nations today by Hugh C. Wallace, the American ambassador to France.

[America's interest in the Mesopotamian mandate, which has been granted to Great Britain, arises from a desire to give American oil enterprises a share in the exploitation of the rich oil fields in that district. The Yap island mandate was granted to Japan, but America has entered a protest because she seeks control of the cable station on Yap island. This station controls the United States-Philippines cable.]

M'ADOO TALKS OF LOANS MADE

Would Make No Further Loans to Europe.

REGARDS IT BAD PEACE-TIME POLICY

Former Rail Director Declares Railroads Are Going from Bad to Worse.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, in commenting on the foreign loan situation, today, said that since March, 1920, he has strongly opposed the granting of further loans to foreign governments.

"As early as March, 1920, I believed it to be a bad peace-time policy to make further loans," McAdoo said. "I take full responsibility for the loans which I made, however and I believe that this nation should fulfil the promises which it made prior to March, 1920, for I believe it is honor bound to make payments on credits already established."

Speaking of the question of railroads, McAdoo charged that "a vicious propaganda" had been carried on to secure the return of the railroads to private control and he declared that the present conditions of the railroads shows that "government operation was more efficient than private operation."

"The railroads are going from bad to worse," McAdoo said.

He declared that the Cummins-Esch bill had created "gratuities" for the railroads, for "which they are now reaching out to grab" and that the American people have been "baited" to establish these funds for the railroads.

"It is folly to make the American people give the railroads a six-per-cent. return upon valuations fixed, which do not represent the service performed," McAdoo said. "Adequate rates for adequate service performed," McAdoo said should be the standard.

"Higher freight and passenger rates have not helped the railway situation." McAdoo said. "Advances in rates have largely benefited those carriers in the more prosperous class, but very little help has been given under them to the weaker lines.

"Higher rates mean less business handled," said McAdoo. "Rates should be maintained that will act as a stimulant to industry, not as a check.

"Present rates, for example, are running some New England industries out of business. Such industries are unable to compete with similar industries located in other parts of the country.

"The roads are wading into the treasury for all they can get and won't be stopped until the American people begin to think clearly on this problem again and force measures to stop such raids on the taxpayers' money."

WOUNDED VETERANS IN A SORRY PLIGHT

Legion Officials Plan To Hold Public Meetings.

New York, Feb. 23.—Charles E. Pickett, state commander of the American Legion, announced appointment of a committee headed by George W. Wickersham to hold public meetings in this city regarding treatment of wounded ex-service men.

On completing its hearings the committee will report to the legions state executive committee, with recommendations as to what action shall be taken by congress, the state or other agencies to remedy "crying evils alleged now to exist." The first hearing will be held in the hall of records next Friday, and it is expected unemployment of ex-service men will receive attention.

"Many of these men now on the street, after having served to their ablest the country we all love, are in destitute condition," said Commander Blakeslee. "Numbers of them have died in poorhouses, some of the cemented even in jails. Many are housed in unsanitary and unsafe so-called 'hospitals.' The increase in the number of tuberculosis cases and the lack of facilities therefor is astounding. The slowness with which justifiable complaints are dealt with is criminal."

REDS HALT ALLIED ARMY NEAR VILNA

Wireless Employed To Keep Force from City.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The Russian Bolshevik government has halted the league of nations army which had been assigned to go to Vilna and supervise the plebiscite there to determine whether the city shall be Polish or Lithuanian. The city is the capital of Lithuania. The Bolsheviki want to keep the league of nations from sending in an army to supervise the plebiscite on the ground that such action would be virtual intervention in favor of Poland.

The league army first tried to get to Vilna through Switzerland. Foreign Minister Tchitcherin of Russia wirelessed orders to Swiss radicals, who brought pressure on the government and forced it to refuse the army passage through the country. The troops then tried to pass through Italy. Again the Moscow wireless sent orders and the Italian radicals blocked action by Italy. Roumania, Austria and Czecho-Slovakia in turn were compelled through the threats of their radicals to turn the league army back.

The league of nations council may decide on action this week to compel the member countries to give its troops passage.

A BAN PLACED ON MUNITIONS

Argentina Denied Shipments from Germany.

ALLIED COMMISSION REACHES DECISION

Several Neutrals Trying To Secure War Munitions from the Germans.

London, Feb. 23.—The allied control commissions in Germany will prohibit shipments of war materials from Gearmany to Argentina or any other neutral country, in such countries persist in trying to buy munitions. The announcement was made in British official circles here yesterday.

It was stated that despite the reply of Argentina to the allied reminder that the Versailles treaty prohibits Germany from manufacturing or exporting war materials, no drastic measures were needed now for enforcing the prohibition on shipments to Argentina, but it was said continued efforts to obtain the same would bring the allied commissions to full exertion of their duties.

While it was appreciated that Argentina, like other neutrals, would appreciate the advantage of bargains in war supplies, it was declared this was impossible in view of the treaty. Efforts to obtain supplies would only embarrass the allies and Germany, and particularly the latter, which had enacted measures to forestall such shipments as were reported to be in preparation for South America, it was said.

Prefers To Wait.

London, Feb. 23.—Andrew Bonar Law, government spokesman questioned in the house of commons yesterday, whether Great Britian would approach Japan and the United States for the purpose of conferring on naval construction replied that until the new American government had taken office it would not be desirable to express an opinion or suggestion.

Another query was raised as to whether the cabinet had decided on any policy concerning the building of capital ships, in view of the Japanese and American programs. Mr. Bonar Law, replying, said the matter still was under consideration by the committee on imperial defense and no decision had yet been reached.

Answers Question.

London, Feb. 23.—Cecil Harmsworth, undersecretary of foreign affairs answering a question in the house of commons yesterday as to whether the government was aware of complaints made against the Peruvian government by intending immigrants for non-compliance with agreements made by its agents, the emigrants having sold their homes and then been informed they could not be taken to Peru, said the British minister in Lima had been instructed to bring the matter to the notice of the Peruvian government.

The British minister, Mr. Harmsworth added, had been requested to ascertain whether the Peruvian government was prepared to accept responsibility for the losses incurred in such cases.

ABOLITION OF EXCESS PROFITS TAX NEEDED

One Reflex of Foreign Investments Is Emphasized.

J. E. PHILLIPS ADDRESSES CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Recent Visitor to Orient Tells of His Experiences and Observations.

Abolition of the excess profits tax on earnings on foreign investments is necessary if American foreign credit is to be extended, according to James E Phillips, who today told members of the chamber of commerce of his trip to the Orient. Mr. Phillips addressed the weekly noon luncheon of the organization in the Y. M. C. A. building He stated this tax tends to discourage Americans from making foreign investments.

An interesting account of his trip was given by Mr. Phillips, who told of the various cities he visited and their chief points of interest. His talk dealt principally with Japan and the treatment accorded American tourists by the Japanese. He said the Japanese are very cordial toward Americans and receive them very graciously. There was no talk of war heard in that country, Mr. Phillips said.

Surrounded by Reporters.

When the party landed at Nagaki, Mr Phillips said he registered from Marion, and soon had a corps of newspaper correspondents, asking him for interviews, taking the view that the party was in Japan to secure information for President-Elect Harding

Talking of the California-Japanese controversy, Mr. Phillips said he does not think that it will result seriously and stated he believes this is one of the first things Mr. Harding will set out to settle as soon as he takes office. He also expressed the opinion that the Californians do not appreciate the work of the Japanese on the Pacific coast.

"I am convinced that anything whether well founded or ill founded, which involves the name of a judge in unfavorable comment or criticism, is hurtful to the bench as a whole."

The judge's resignation was asked by a committee of the Cleveland Bar association, following his acquittal.

SAYS HATFIELD SHOOTS FIRST

Star Witness of State on the Witness Stand.

DEFENDANT TURNS TO SIDE OF STATE

Says Killing of Detectives at Matewan Is Long Premeditated by Hatfield.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamson W Va, Feb 23.—Dread of the 'double cross' drove Isaac Brewer to desert the cause of his nineteen codefendants and today, made him take the witness stand against them in the 'trigger trial.'

He said so, under cross-examination.

As he lay in the hospital recovering from two gunshot wounds received in the "battle of Matewan," someone told him that "some of the boys" were going to swear he killed Albert Felts, he said. This would mean 'for me to be hanged, and the rest of the boys to go free," he added

So he told, under oath, today, a story widely different from three other stories he has told counsel for the defense in private examinations

He fired the first shot on Sid Hatfield, instead of Albert Felts. And whenever J. J. Conniff, in two hours of grilling, confronted the ex defendant with his previous stories, the witness smiled and said: "That was only a tale I told you—I wasn't under oath then."

He stuck by his today's story, but he will be recalled to the stand for further grilling.

Veteran On Stand.

A war veteran, decorated hero of five big battles in France, testified for the state in the afternoon, as to his part in the two minute's bullet exchange at Matewan

The witness, Captain G W Anderson, a Baldwin-Felts detective, had a miraculous escape from death.

He was shot in the shoulder, the bullet coming out of the chest. He had no weapon with which to defend himself. With him, half carrying him, escaped his twin brother, also a war veteran.

The captain, a clean-cut type, showing eleven years of life in the regular army, testified he saw the first shot fired: "I saw the blaze," he said, "and Felts fell"

He said he heard Hatfield say to Felts, just before the shooting: "We'll walk down here where we can talk"

Later, with blood gushing from his shoulder and chest, the witness dragged himself to the train that was just leaving Matewan His twin brother shoved him into a Pullman The last they heard was someone saying: "There goes two of the dogs"

Brewer on Stand.

Mingo County Courthouse, Williamson, W. Va., Feb. 23.—A man from whom the threat of the hangman's rope was removed on the second day of the 'trigger trial,' was placed on the witness stand, today, by the state, to testify against nineteen men in whose midst he sat in "defendants' row," when the case opened, five weeks ago today.

He is Isaac Brewer, a Matewan miner The indictment, charging him with the murder of Albert C Felts, was nolled just before the jury was sworn in. He has since been closely guarded. He is regarded as the state's star of stars.

Brewer had scarcely been on the stand a few minutes when he plunged into a story extremely damaging to his former codefendants—and particularly Sid Hatfield.

Brewer was not only an eyewitness but a victim of the Matewan gun battle He was wounded twice.

One of the first statements he made under oath was that Sid Hatfield, chief of police of Matewan and principal defendant, said to him, Brewer, before the battle: "Let's take a bunch of men and go to the hills and kill all of those Baldwin-Felts men as they come out of the houses"

He referred to the houses from which union miners and their families were evicted by Felts detectives. Seven of these detectives were killed in the gun battle.

Quotes Hatfield.

Brewer quoted Hatfield as making remarks bitterly hostile to Mayor C. C. Testerman, of Matewan, who was killed in the battle. "He said Sid threatened to kill the mayor

"Sid. Hatfield," Brewer testified, "told me Testerman wouldn't issue any warrants for the arrest of those Felts men.

He ended by saying "I'll be d—— if I don't cut him in two with a bullet"

Sid. Hatfield sat at the table of counsel for the defense, smiling. He looked at Brewer with eyes that expressed nothing but amusement. He rested his head on his left arm, his hand behind his ear, so as to catch every syllable of what Brewer was saying. A few feet from Sid, sat his wife. She was Testerman's widow. Sid married her nine days after the gun battle. Mrs Hatfield, too, smiled. Her eyes switched constantly from the witness to her husband. The rest of the defendants literally hung on Brewer's lips. Their faces were sullen, grim. Many of the accused had their wives sitting beside them.

"Just about a minute before the shooting started," said Brewer, Sid Hatfield put his hands up to my ears and said: 'Let's kill every d—— one of them.'"

Asked what his answer was the witness declared he told Sid he would not do it. "It would mean the death of too many men

"Sid. Hatfield shot Albert Felts with a pistol—I saw him fire the shot," Brewer swore Sid Hatfield's shot which hit Felts was the first shot of the battle, Brewer testified.

With Hatfield.

Brewer was examined for the state by ex-Judge John S Marcum of Huntington The witness is a tall loose-limbed youth with black hair and blue eyes

He told his story calmly. Only once did he turn his eyes to defendants' row. That was when the examiner asked him whether he knew all of the accused. He said he knew all but two

Brewer is a cousin of ex Judge James Damron one of the leading special attorneys for the prosecution

"You are the same Isaac Brewer who was indicted jointly with these defendants for the murder of Albert C Felts," was one of the first questions by Judge Marcum.

The witness lowered his eyes—it was almost a wince—for just a second He let his tongue run over his lips cleared throat then answered clearly

"Yes, sir.

It was a visible effort But thenceforth he did not once show emotion of any sort

Brewer said he went to Matewan on the battle date, at Sid Hatfield's behest He said he, Brewer, was armed with two pistols. One of these was introduced in evidence and Brewer handled it illustrating his story.

Under cross examination by J. J. Conniff Brewer admitted he had turned states evidence because "somebody" had told him that "somebody," would swear he, Brewer, killed Albert Felts He refused to give the name of his informant.

Brewer accused Bill Bowman, one of the defendants, of firing into Albert Felts as the latter, hit by Sid Hatfield, lay bleeding on the pavement He said he did not know whether Felts was dead

Bowman, he said, fired a shot into Felts' head.

"I saw his face bounce up," said the witness. "He was lying with his face against the wall.

"Bowman said as he shot: 'There—take that—d— you.'"

Used as Model.

Again the door behind Judge Robert D Bailey's bench was used as a "model" for the entrance of Chambers' hardware store at Matewan, where the battle began.

The jury crowded around the bench as Brewer went over the story, placing himself in various positions.

Brewer's examination by the state lasted only an hour J. J Conniff, counsel for the defense, opened his cross-examination by placing in the record the witness' relationship to ex-Judge Damron Brewer said he "had heard" he was also related to ex-Judge Marcum

Then Conniff shot this question at the witness. "You heard that somebody was going to swear that you killed Albert Felts and therefore, you decided to give the testimony you gave here today—isn't that true?"

"Yes sir, it is"

SOCIALISM

The International Sunday-School Lesson for February 27 is "Rewards of Faithfulness." —Matthew 25:14-30.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

Persons who read more of radicalism than of religion, are fond of appealing to the Bible as the basis of all their varied socialistic theories. Their appeal, if they know anything about the New Testament, is usually to the brief communistic experiment of the apostolic church, a venture that ended in poverty and disaster.

If anybody wants to go to the Bible for economics and sociology, here it is, in the familiar parable which is the present Sunday-school lesson. It is crowded with truth for our times. There is more of hope for human progress in it than in any of the countless treatises upon Bolshevism. Suppose we first of all quote the parable itself, from the Weymouth translation.—

"Why, it is like a man who, when going on his travels, called his bond-servants and entrusted his property to their care. To one he gave five talents, to another two, to another one—to each according to his individual capacity; and then started from home. Without delay the one who had received the five talents went and employed them in business, and gained five more. In the same way he who had the two gained two more. But the man who had received the one went and dug a hole and buried his master's money.

"After a long lapse of time the master of those servants returned and had a reckoning with them. The one who had received the five talents came and brought five more, and said:

"'Sir, it was five talents that you entrusted to me: see, I have gained five more.'

"'You have done well, good and trustworthy servant,' replied his master; 'you have been trustworthy in the management of a little, I will put you in charge of much: share your master's joy!'

"The second, who had received the two talents, came and said,

"'Sir, it was two talents you entrusted to me: see, I have gained two more.'

"'Good and trustworthy servant you have done well,' his master replied; 'you have been trustworthy in the management of a little, I will put you in charge of much: share your master's joy.'

"But, next, the man who had the one talent in his keeping came and said,

"'Sir, I knew you to be a severe man, reaping where you had not sown and garnering what you had not winnowed. So, being afraid, I went and buried your talent in the ground: there you have what belongs to you.'

"'You wicked and slothful servant,' replied his master, 'did you not know that I reap where I have not sown, and garner what I have not winnowed? Your duty was then to deposit my money in some bank, and so when I came I should have got my property with interest. So take away the talent from him, and give it to the man who has the ten.'—For to every one who has, more shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him who has nothing, even what he has shall be taken away.—'But as for this worthless servant, put him one into the darkness outside: there will be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth!'"

Whose Money Was It?

According to the most advanced of modern theories, this householder had no right to possess money of his own. This same state of mind denies God any sovereign or proprietary rights in human life. But the words of Jesus are explicit: it was his own money that the man in the story distributed to his own servants for his own purposes. Property, like life, must be enhanced or it will deteriorate.

The three servants had varying capacity, even as have every group of men today. To say that we are all equal in character and in possibility is to flout the plain facts of life. If human beings did not differ greatly, Lenine and Trotzky would not be running and ruining Russia today. The master in the parable knew his men, and he was fair to them all: for he gave each as much as he could handle. What a blunder it would have been to have entrusted the five talents to the one-talent man!

Each was given the opportunity to fulfill a trust, and to prove his powers. With all the unsocial selfishness that there is in the world today, it is none the less true that many business men care more for their business enjoyments than for their gains. The work means more than the dividends. As a friend said recently, himself a man of large business responsibilities, when we were discussing certain commercial failures: "It isn't the money that matters: it is life, life, life! that these men have put into their work. To see your life structure collapse — that is the bitterness of it all."

Life as a Talent.

Of course, Jesus was talking about the kingdom of heaven—that ultimate goal of all wise seekers after a better order of human life—when He narrated the parable. Significantly, He dealt in terms of individualism as God always does in both rewards and punishments. And it was the faithfulness of the single man that he stressed. His idea clearly is that the kingdom is to come by way of man-and-man fidelity to opportunities and responsibilities.

One does more for all the world by living a true and growing life than by joining any party or society, or by subscribing to any set of dogmas.

Life is the talent of which every one of us is steward. What we do with our life is the real measure of what we for God. The two-talent man may be quite as successful in kind, and earn the same reward, as the five-talent man.

Each is responsible for his use of his gifts. When an heir of opportunity and privilege fails to use his life aright he is a more culpable failure than the son of ignorance and limitations. Both in their respective degrees are answerable to God.

When the Reckoning Comes.

Unfashionable though the idea may be at present, it is still as true as when the Master told this tale, that the day of reckoning is coming. It may be postponed but it may never be averted. It was "after a long time" that the lord of the servants reappeared for his reckoning: but he did return. An old Italian proverb says, "God does not pay every Saturday, but He always pays." There are many kinds of fools in the world, but there is none so foolish as the one who thinks he can escape God.

Under the delirium of mob passion, Russian Bolsheviks interdicted the church, even as the French Revolution "abolished" God. In our mood of "modernism" we may decry the idea of a judgment day as an affront to the sovereign dignity of man; and we may exclaim, with Omar Khayam,

"I myself am heaven and hell."

Just the same, such vaporings do not postpone by a single minute the inevitableness of the reckoning at the great Assize. An old story tells of the dog that was disturbed by the brightness of the moon. So it went out into the field and barked and bayed at the moon; but the moon simply kept on shining. Puny minds cry out in protest against God, and God keeps right on being God, and judge of all the earth. Scornful and impious young people, who have been "emancipated" from the old faith, laugh at the idea of God and a reckoning. Today is their turn to laugh; tomorrow, as said the Psalmist, "He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh."

It is a real and reasonable incentive to faithfulness and clean living that we are servants of the living God, and that a reckoning with Him is one of the sure and inescapable things.

"A Better Man Than His Dad."

Unless my sons become better men than I am, both they and I must be written down as failures. "He is not the man his father was," we sometimes hear of a youth; and condemnation could not be severer. Sons should be improvements upon fathers to vindicate the divine principle of the increase of the talents. That is the way the kingdom comes.

Not better laws, but better people, make a better state of society. What ails prohibition enforcement? Simply the fact that a multitude of the people are not up to the level of the law; and no law ever attains a higher plane of fulfillment than the sentiment of the men and women to whom it applies. Some silly folk think that if we adopted the soviet form of government our ills would vanish. Absurd. What we need is a higher grade of individual life, such as the Sunday-school is seeking everywhere to produce.

Like all the words of Jesus, this parable compacts exhaustless wisdom. It points the way to the kingdom's coming; and it points the way also to individual improvement. Use, enlarge and multiply your talent, whatever that may be. When we have five-talent men increased by fidelity and efficiency to ten-talent men we are obviously lifting the common level of society up to a ten-talent scale. All the best of human qualities—initiative, courage, application, fidelity—are called into being and developed by the talent-increasing person.

How is this land of ours growing? The story is being repeated every day on every hand. One ambitious person succeeds; it may be a working girl who introduces into her home better furniture, a piano, and a more careful manner of dress and conduct. The whole family is lifted up to her level. Her neighbors emulate the family's example, and pianos are heard up and down the street. Books and reading and a finer social code follow. The men must earn more to maintain the scale of life. Relatives are drawn into the process. Every one of us has seen neighborhoods and families so lifted up merely by one person's employing his or her own talents to the full. As yet socialism has found no substitute for this tested process of democracy.

When the Auto "Knocks."

One of the wise sayings born of modern experience is that "An automobile 'knocks' going up-hill; but a man 'knocks' when going down hill." The faultfinder in the Lesson was the man who was the failure. The one-talent man produced nothing but complaints. Just as "the destruction of the poor is their poverty," so the failure of the unsuccessful is usually their own weakness. It was because he was only a one-talent man that the servant did not multiply even what he possessed. Instead, he substituted criticism of others for achievement by himself. The poorest stick is a good "knocker."

It was not for lack of two talents that the failure in the story was condemned; but for lack of attempt to do his duty—for, be it remembered, the increase of the talents was a duty, as well as an opportunity. In effortless, self-pitying, bitter-souled sloth, the one-talent servant showed himself a simple quitter. Had he made any fair trial he would have been rewarded.

"It is good to know that attempted things
Are counted and crowned by the King of kings."

So the "Master of all good workmen" laid down the principle: "For to every one who has, more shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him who has nothing, even what he has shall be taken away."

The police received a call that two men were trying to get in the Berry place and officers hastened to the scene. The men were trying to unlock the door with a skeleton key as the officers approached. Hearing or seeing the officers they started to run down Davids street and the officers fired several shots, but the men had such a good lead that they made their escape in the darkness.

W. J. Noonan, out of the Erie mechanical department at Meadville, is looking after business in local railroad circles.

OHIO FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick, Director of Press

National Music Week.

Youngstown, home of Mrs. Warren P. Williamson, head of the music department of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs, has a genuine love for music as well as the capacity for enjoying it. No city in the United States perhaps more enthusiastically observed "National Music" week than Youngstown. Beginning with a great community sing the celebration opened Sunday evening February 20 as the "curtain raiser" to crowded week's program. The mayor of Youngstown issued a proclamation asking that the week be heartily observed with the result that the chamber of commerce, music commission, theaters, clubs and schools joined in a joyous week of song. Much of the credit for Youngstown's observance of "National Music" week is due Mrs. Williamson, who, believing with Shakespeare that "the man that hath no music in himself, nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils," worked almost incessantly for weeks to bring about such a celebration as Youngstown had never seen before in its musical history. Mrs. Williamson recently has been honored with the appointment of music chairman of Ohio for the community music department of the National Council of Women of the United States. It is hoped by state federation officers that club women in planning their next year's programs will set aside "National Music" week as their part in the movement to make America a singing nation.

They're Going To Know.

Every woman ought to know about investments, more about government, state, municipal and commercial bonds, according to Mrs. Paul Frank, Crestline, chairman of the state federation thrift committee. She also thinks they should know more about "stocks, preferred and common," and characteristic of a good investment," so she suggests that for thrift club day a local banker, business man or lawyer be invited to discuss the financial question, dealing particularly with this phase of it. Mrs. Frank has outlined a program which she will furnish all clubs desiring it.

Busy Akron Club Women.

For their February meeting members of the Akron federation took up the question of a mother's responsibility to her daughter and had Dr. Charles Barker, of New York City, a recognized child welfare expert, discuss the subject at the First Church of Christ. A number of Akron club women are now sponsoring a movement for the return engagement of Dr. Barker the first week in May to address the student body of the high school. Akron club women have adopted a plan of action for aiding the detention home for women in the Rubber City. Donald Walker, versatile writer and illustrator and celebrated story teller for children, is to appear in Akron March 5 followed in April by Thornton Burgess, author of the famous Peter Rabbit stories. Both will speak under the auspices of the federation and the College club.

First Official Call.

Mrs. Hermine Z. Hansen, Akron, vice president of the Northeast district, has issued the first call of the eighth district conferences of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs. The Northeast district conference will be held at Kent, Friday and Saturday, March 11 and 12. The Kent federation has extended the invitation not only to the 148 affiliated clubs in the district, but to those not affiliated. The conference will open the afternoon of March 11 at the First Methodist church. That evening at 8 o'clock there will be a musical program, a noted speaker and a reception. The reception will be in honor of Mrs. William H. Sharp, Columbus, president of the Ohio Federation, other state officers and guests.

The morning session of March 12 will open at 9:15. Delegates will be allowed from three to five minutes for their reports. A written report should be filed with the secretary. Meals will be served Friday at 6 p. m. and Saturday at noon. Delegates and visitors will be entertained in private homes at reasonable rates. Delegates should notify Mrs. Erndene Knoifel, No. 413 east Summit street, if they desire reservations in private homes for Friday night and breakfast, and also if they wish the two meals to be served by the committee in charge. Mrs. Knoifel is head of the committee on rooms and all reservations should be made by March 4.

Kent is in Portage county, twelve miles from Akron, and is reached by the Erie, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania, via Ravenna and N. O. T. line.

Conservation Subjects.

Mrs. Lyle S. Evans, Chillicothe, chairman of conservation for the state federation, would have all club programs next year carry these subjects: "The Economic Value of Conservation "Forests and the Keystone of Conservation," "Water and Waterways," "Natural Scenery—Historical and Recreational," "Our Nation's Minerals," and "Fish as a National Asset."

IN COMMON PLEAS

Wife Granted Divorce.

Gladys M. Long today was granted a divorce from George E. Long on the ground of extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. The custody of the minor child was awarded to the plaintiff until further order of the court and the costs were adjudged against the defendant.

Left Off Docket.

Testimony in the divorce suit of Myrtle Daly against James Daly was heard by Judge Grant E. Mouser in the common pleas court this morning. The case was ordered left off the docket for six months.

No Word Yet.

Sheriff Frank A. Washburn is still awaiting word from Cleveland and Shelby regarding Robert Barnett, who is being held in the county jail as a suspect in the case of the two Parma High school teachers murdered in Cleveland last week. Neither the police nor the sheriff has received any word from Cleveland or Shelby, where Barnett claims he slept in the police station last Wednesday night.

DR. O. A. NEWLIN SPEAKS AT FATHER-SON BANQUET

Recites Some Original Poems That Please.

G. E. BONNEY SINGS "HOW BETSY MADE THE FLAG"

Pleasant Event Is Held at the First Presbyterian Church Last Evening.

One hundred and forty men and boys sat down together uesday evening around the tables at the First Presbyterian church for the first father-son banquet of the church and Sunday-school. The dining room and tables were attractively decorated with flags and bunting in commemoration of Washington's birthday.

The banquet was served by the women of the Westminster Bible class, with Mrs. J. W. Hungate as chairman. During the program which followed, Bryon E. Wilson presided and introduced the speakers. After cleverly "making" a small silk flag in a way that mystified his audience, G. E. Bonney sang "How Betsy Made the Flag." Secretary O. H. Carrier, of the Y. M. C. A., urged the men to join the men's Bible class of the Sunday-school. Boys' work Secretary R. A. Wagner spoke of the advantages of the Y. M. C. A. boys' camp. Dr. O. A. Newlin then made a brief address, which he concluded with the reading of several original poems, among them the following:

A Word for Father.

When poets write what others feel,
And set to rhythm their appeal,
Does father get a fair "square deal?"
  Not that I have ever heard.
They praise your mother and praise mine,
A praise as just as it is fine,
But give to father not a line.
  See that father has a word.

Do those who have for him no praise,
Nor sunshine for his gloomy days,
Find fault with his prosaic ways?
  Not that I have ever heard.
When poets muse and dream and write,
That they no praise for him indite
Must be a careless oversight.
  See that father has a word.

When mother sang us fast asleep
And gave devotion full and deep,
Did father fail his watch to keep?
  Not that I have ever heard.
You know his love stands undenied;
His ardor fiercest storms defied
A thousand comforts to provide.
  See that father has a word.

When mother wears her new spring hat
And all the clothes which go with that,
Does father get a new cravat?
  Not that I have ever heard.
He sacrifices much for you;
A better man you never knew;
Go pay this debt, long over due.
  See that father has a word.

He hears the eulogies we bring
Of all the others when we sing.
Has he revolted at this thing?
  Not that I have ever heard.
Do not perpetuate this wrong.
Put praise for him into your song.
And sing it loud and sing it long.
  See that father has a word.

After a prayer by Dr. Linius L. Strock the audience adjourned for the Newlin evangelistic services in the church auditorium.

AFTER ANY ILLNESS THE BLOOD IS WEAK

If You Get Well Slowly, Try Building Up Your Blood.

IT'S BLOOD THAT FEEDS THE BODY

Pepto-Mangan Creates Rich, Red Blood. Changes Pale Complexions to Bloom of Health.

A serious illness, even a cold that is hard to shake off, can reduce the blood to a weak, watery condition which keeps the normal strength and vigor from coming back.

This poor physical condition brings on a helpless, discouraged mental condition which rich, red blood can restore.

Pure blood should be rich in iron which Nature supplies to some extent in food. But often through faulty digestion or improper diet you don't get the needed iron, and your blood, on which your health depends, grows weaker and weaker.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan enriches the blood, increases the red blood cells and supplies the ingredients that bring a quick response in vigor, vitality, and fine color.

Physicians recommend Gude's Pepto-Mangan. When you order, be sure the word "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan. Furnished in both liquid and tablet form. For sale by all druggists.—Adv.

Some Bad Roads.

Sistersville, W. Va., Feb. 23.—Here's evidence that West Virginia needs good roads. A little boy, playing in the road near his home in the Buffalo district, near here, fell into a mud puddle and couldn't get out for nearly an hour when a teamster happened along.

THE HUB OF COMMERCE.

Daily Proverb—"We can not eat the fruit while the tree is in blossom."

That league-of-nations army is finding it a long, long way to Vilna.

Eggs are selling for twenty-five cents a dozen down in Houston, Texas, but joy is not supreme. The price of the nog is rising steadily.

It's characteristic of the professional reformer ever to insist on getting his money in advance.

The present contract price of news print might be taken to indicate that the federal shipping board is trying to corner the market.

The price of ice-cream is said to be dropping. At last, the necessities are beginning to feel the bear movement.

While it is probably true that the bear movement started late last spring, the girls have been executing a bare movement for the last three or four years.

A poet sings: "O help me reap the sunset." Looks as though daylight is being worked at both ends.

The premier of Quebec province is reported to have predicted that the United States will not remain dry. What's he after—the joy-killing championship of the Dominion?

If Caruso recovers, his case will come mighty near being the exception which proves the rule where oxygen is administered.

Europe talks so seriously about welching on what she owes us that one may reasonably conclude that she doesn't anticipate making any more loans to us.

"Compulsory Piety," reads an editorial head in an exchange. To make a long story short, it may be said that "there ain't no sich animule."

Among the many lines with a familiar look one sees in the newspapers of the land, perhaps the most common, of late years, has been that good, old standby, "Vote for the bond issue."

Possibly Mr. Ford didn't want to spring too much on us at one time or he might have hinted at a machine to lay eggs.

The Houston Post insists that Mr Bryan is a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1924. It's not impossible, but we rather lean to the view that he's simply trying to keep the "other fellows" on the anxious seat, and take it from us the colonel has attained proficiency at that as those after honors at the hands of Democracy will testify.

NOT AN IMPOSSIBILITY.

We expect the unusual from Henry Ford. When he announced a few days ago that wages in his big Detroit factory would not be cut from their six-dollar-a-day minimum and that he does not propose to borrow any money from the "loan sharks" of Wall street, no one was surprised.

But that is not the most unusual of Mr. Ford's recent exploits. Behold the mechanical cow!

"The farmer will see the day when both the horse and the cow will be done away with," says Mr. Ford. "It is a simple matter to take the same cereals that the cows eat and make them into milk which is superior to the natural milk and much cleaner. The cow is the crudest animal in the world."

How delightful to go out to the garage in the morning, crank Bossy, hear her four cylinders explode, turn the spigot, and return to the breakfast table with the family milk pail, foaming and overflowing, on your arm!

Strange as it seems to the lay mind, science agrees with Mr. Ford. The artificial cow is by no means a remote possibility. The project of producing synthetic milk has much to recommend it, especially from the sanitary standpoint.

In one particular only does Mr. Ford appear to err. That is in predicting the passing of the horse and the cow. There are more horses in the country now than when the first tin Lizzie was produced. The chances are the tin "Bossy" will never supplant the bovine original.

Men Will Neglect Business Any Time

A MARKED IMPROVEMENT.

The marked improvement worked in the uptown business district of the city by the removal of the unsightly wooden poles is the subject of favorable comment on the part of our citizenship generally. Until the old poles and the mass of wires they carried were taken down and supplanted by the iron poles bearing the trolley guys and the feed wires, it was not realized by many how great an improvement such a change would accomplish.

But the good work should not be stopped at its present stage. It should go on until every wooden pole is removed from the business section of the city. Out in the residential districts, lines of straight, properly-painted poles along the streets may be forgiven, especially when they are in part hidden by shade trees, but in the uptown section they should not be tolerated. Not only do they detract from the appearance of the streets, but they also interfere at times with the working of the fire department. It has been demonstrated that trunk lines of wires do not have to be stretched in the business district. That being the case, it should not be long until those that remain are removed. The city should not be content to have it otherwise.

As a matter of fact, the city has been somewhat remiss in the matter of its appearance. It is a mistaken policy. A city can not be too careful as to the impressions made on the eye. The cleaner and more sightly it appears, the more it impresses the visitor, and, more to be regarded, the cleaner, better and happier it makes those living in it. Our surroundings have much to do with our lives.

Germany probably realizes by this time that the terms she would have demanded, in the event of her success at arms, would have been a bit severe.

"An optimist," says the Columbus Dispatch, "is a person who carries large sums of money or wears valuable jewelry these nights." Stuff and nonsense! Paragraphers are blown-in-the-bottle optimists, and how could they qualify for a definition like that?

Anyway, it will have to be admitted that the present session of congress has been mighty considerate about not overworking President Wilson.

A Chicago paragrapher holds that Henry Ford's ambition is "to furnish every family in the United States with an automobile." Pshaw, Henry! Don't you realize that if there weren't any pedestrians left it would take just about all the pleasure out of automobiling for some people?

THE NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL.

(Cincinnati Enquirer.)

The selection by President-Elect Harding of Harry M Daugherty for attorney general in his cabinet is distinctly his own choice. The misdirected opposition only confirmed Mr. Harding in his preference, and probably hastened his announcement.

Mr Daugherty is fully fitted for the work to which he is summoned in the Harding administration. His long experience at the Ohio bar and with the practice in other courts qualifies him professionally, and his wide acquaintance with the politics of his home state and of the nation will be found not to come amiss.

He was a potent factor in the Harding movement from its inception. He was the guiding spirit of the pre-primary contest. He was a capable manager at Chicago, and a resultant aid in the subsequent campaign. LIFE'S VAUDEVILLE.

(By James Ball Naylor)

SONGS AND SONGS

There are songs and songs.

There are the ephemeral songs of the day; and the songs of years and generations.

The popular song, the topical song, seldom has much real merit. It is written to sell, as well as to sing. It has a wonderful run, maybe, and makes its author and its publisher a lot of money; and then it suddenly dies; and, in a comparatively short time, is almost completely forgotten.

Such songs are sung with the voice, merely. Real songs are sung with the soul.

Folk songs are real songs. They are begotten of the loves, aspirations and fond desires of a people. They speak not of houses—but of homes. They breathe the spirit of friendship and kindliness. They are redolent with the perfume of old-fashioned flowers. Some times they are gay—some times they are sad; but always they are heart-felt.

Writers of folk songs are born—not made. They are poets—real poets. Their productions may be more or less rude and crude in conception and construction; but they ring true—they answer a demand, they supply a want. That's the reason they live—and go on living, long after more polished but less worthy songs are dead and gone.

Folk songs appeal directly to the emotions—to the innermost heart.

America has some great folk songs—young as America is, comparatively speaking.

Who is there who doesn't love "My Old Kentucky Home?"

Who is there who hasn't been thrilled by "Massa's in de Cold, Cold Ground?"

Who is there who doesn't respond to the appeal of "Ole Uncle Ned," or "Nelly Bly?"

And who is there who isn't moved to moisture in the eyes by the moving music and words of "The Old Folks at Home," "Swanee River?"

None—no one.

And who composed the dear old folk songs I've enumerated?

Stephen Collins Foster—the greatest song genius of America, one of the greatest song geniuses of the wide world.

Stephen Foster, who blessed the world with his sweet and tearful melodies, is dead and gone—but not forgotten; he never will be forgotten as long as English-speech songs are sung.

But how little most of us really know about Stephen Foster!

How little the big, busy world knows—or cares—about him! 'Tis a shame—a burning shame. Stephen Foster's birthday should be celebrated in every school in the United States. His name should be held in fond and grateful remembrance.

Stephen Foster was born in Pittsburgh, July 4, 1826. His parents were both from the Southland; and, undoubtedly, he inherited his fondness for things southern. He attended Athens academy and Jefferson college in Pennsylvania; but mainly he was self-taught. For it was through his own efforts that he learned French and German and music.

Foster published his first song in 1841—"Open Thy Lattice, Love." Soon after this he spent three years in Cincinnati, as a bookkeeper for his brother; and it was in this city that he really found himself.

As is the case too often with those who confer benefits upon the world, Stephen Foster died in poverty—unrewarded, unhonored and unsung.

JUDGE MOUSER UPSETS BOLANDER JURY FINDING

Declares Verdict Unsupported by Cruelty Evidence.

J. B. BOLANDER HAD BEEN FINED $100 AND COSTS

Humane Society Charged Bolander with Refusing Enough Food to Aged Ward.

Judge Grant E. Mouser, in an opinion handed down today, reversed the lower court in the James B. Bolander case on the ground that the verdict of the jury was not sustained by the evidence.

Bolander was tried by a jury in Justice G. Farr Larie's court December 9, 1920, on a charge of cruelty toward Miss Josie Detrick, an aged woman whose business was administered by Bolander. It was charged that he "tortured and tormented" Miss Detrick by refusing to provide her with sufficient food, fuel and clothing. Bolander was found guilty and assessed a fine of $100 and costs. James H. Eymon, representative of the Humane society, had charge of the prosecution and Hoke W. Donithen was attorney for the defendant.

Through Attorney Donithen, Bolander appealed the case to the common pleas court on error, the title of the appeal case being James B. Bolander, plaintiff-in-error, against the State of Ohio, defendant-in-error.

Not Supported by Evidence.

In a review of the case the court points out that the charge against Bolander is that he "unlawfully tortured and tormented" Miss Detrick and states the record is devoid of any evidence which would tend to sustain the alleged claim and shows she never demanded anything in the way of necessaries or comforts which was not given.

An excerpt from the opinion, which gives a summary of the ground for reversal, follows:

"If the evidence would in any way warrant the conclusion that James Bolander wilfully deprived her of proper care, food and clothing, thereby bringing her the attending circumstances of suffering and misery, this court would not hesitate in declaring that he would be guilty of unlawfully torturing and tormenting her as charged in the affidavit, but such a situation and condition is overwhelmingly refuted by the evidence in the bill of exceptions and therefore this court must hold that the verdict of the jury was not sustained by the evidence."

The action of the court remands the case to the lower court for disposition according to law. It is understood that a settlement between the parties is about to be made which would entirely relieve Mr. Bolander of his administration of the business affairs of Miss Detrick.

A little play, "L'ecole," or "School" was given by six members of the club and the comedy was pronounced a success. The program was as follows:

MISS KIM, NATIVE OF KOREA, SPEAKER

She Addresses the Community Uplift Club—Program.

The women of the Community Uplift club gave a splendid program Tuesday evening in the Smeltzer school-house, south of the city. A feature of the evening's entertainment was the readings and encores given by Mrs. J. G. Crites and especially pleasing was Riley's poem, "An Old Sweetheart of Mine." An interesting talk on "Korea and Honolulu" was given by Miss Kim, a native of Korea. Miss Mildred Beam read an instructive paper on "Birds" and the meeting closed with a community sing. There was a good attendance and a social hour was enjoyed after the program.

Pitkin Tells How Tanlac Overcame His Trouble So Others May Benefit.

"I give Tanlac my unqualified endorsement; for since taking it I am convinced it has unusual merit," said Tom. B. Pitkin, of 287 Wheeler street, Akron, Ohio.

"For the past year I had been suffering from muscular rheumatism of the legs. There was a constant dull ache in my muscles, I lost my appetite and didn't relish a thing I ate. My whole system became affected and I soon got into a badly run-down condition.

"My strength and energy left me and I felt weak and tired out all the time. My sleep wasn't restful and every morning I got up feeling half-sick.

"Mr. Werrath, of the Goodrich Company, recommended Tanlac to me. In just a few days I could feel the rheumatism beginning to leave and my appetite picked up. Although I have been taking Tanlac less than thirty days I never feel a twinge of the rheumatism and I am as strong and active as I ever was in my life.

"I can eat anything I please and digest it properly. That tired, worn out feeling has all gone and I am sleeping soundly every night. My whole system has been built up, I gained several pounds in weight and feel energetic and eager for work all the time."

Tanlac is sold in Marion by The Dumble Pharmacy, in LaRue by Sifritt's Pharmacy and in Waldo by Apt Pharmacy.—Adv.

HARDING HIGH FIVE IN DELAWARE TOURNEY

Local Basketeers Will Go to Classical City Tomorrow.

Tomorrow night the Harding High five will travel to Delaware as they are entered in the Ohio Scholastic tournament being held under the auspices of Ohio Wesleyan university. The outcome of this tournament will decide the high school basket-ball championship of the state. There are already 105 teams entered in this race, half of them from the north division which plays this week. The result of this week's playing will leave two unbeaten teams from Northern Ohio. The following week, the southern division will be cut down to two unbeaten teams in a like manner. Then the week following this, the four teams will return to Delaware, two teams from the north will battle for the championship of the north and the southern teams for the southern title. The two remaining teams will then battle for the state honors.

The tournament is a grilling affair, it sometimes being necessary for a team to play as many as three games in a day.

A Marion outfit has never been able to go higher than the third round, but local fans have hopes of a better record this season. The playing of games is regulated by a draw and if the Marionites prove themselves lucky by hitting an easy game at the outset, they have a fair chance to establish a good record.

WITH THE PUGS

Last Night's Fights.

At New York—Louis Bogash and Soldier Bartfield boxed a fifteen-round draw. Midget Smith knocked out George Lee, Chinese boxer, in the ninth round. Willie Spencer won a decision over Bud Dempsey in ten rounds. Roy Moore won a decision over Benny Coster in fifteen rounds. Johnny Summers and Farmer Sullivan boxed fifteen rounds, Sullivan winning a decision.

At Providence—Jack McCarron and Soldier Pat. Delaney boxed a ten-round draw.

At Philadelphia—Joe Lynch, bantamweight champion, outpointed Jabez White, Albany, in eight rounds. Jack Perry outfought Patsy Johnson, of Trenton.

At Allentown—Fred. Fulton knocked out "Roughhouse" Ware in three rounds.

Bouts at Canton.

Canton, Feb. 23.—Carrying his opponent along at a terrific pace in the last four rounds, Jimmy Jones, young Alliance pugilist, fought his way to a draw here last night with Veteran Johnny Griffiths, of Akron, in a bout of twelve rounds, billed for the Ohio welterweight championship. Griffiths was not able to hold the margin he established on points from the third to the eighth round. Alex. Hart, Lorain lightweight, knocked out Eddie Atlas, of Akron, in the eighth round, with a right hook. Atlas being floored three times before his seconds threw in the towel.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were in a closed car and did not hear the engine approaching. Neither was thrown from the car. Both were able to walk to their home.

Mrs. Brown was bruised on the right shoulder and hip and suffered a sprained ankle. Mr. Brown was cut about the head from the broken glass and cut on the right hand. Both are suffering from the nervous shock.

The machine was completely smashed.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE OPENED AT MORRAL

With a Good Attendance This Morning.

Morral, O., Feb 23.—[Special.]—The eighth annual Farmers' Institute opened this morning in the High school auditorium with a good attendance. The pupils of the Eighth grade attended the morning session to hear the lecture on "The Needs of Boys and Girls," given by Mrs. Ida Durbin, a state speaker, from Fredericktown. Mrs. Durbin told the audience that the big thing to consider in life was a strong body and a trained mind. "We never complete our education," she said. The speaker said that the world was deeply interested in live-stock organization, but was criminally careless about the children.

The program opened with the singing of "America," which was followed by the invocation by Rev. R. E. Brown, pastor of the Baptist church. A part of the morning session was given to a talk on "Plants," by Z. S. Smith, of Marion. Mrs. Durbin is on the program for a talk this afternoon. The institute will close tomorrow afternoon with the election of officers.

Game Thursday Night.

The American Legion basket-ball team, which has been affording the lovers of the game some excellent sport, will meet the team representing M company, of Marysville, at the armory, Thursday evening. The Marysville team is one of the fastest in Central Ohio and has established an excellent record against first class teams.

Marion's team is in fine shape for the contest and the local boys expect to go at top speed and win from the visitors. The legion has been furnishing the fans some fine sport and has been running at a loss on account of the failure of the fans to turn out and support the boys as they should. This contest has been well advertised and should draw a record crowd. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock.

BASEBALL.

Big Spring Drive.

New York, Feb. 23. — The big spring drive of the ambitious New York Yankees starts Friday. The Yankees will set the pace for rival clubs in the way of starting a squad of pretentions toward Dixie, when a dozen or more players leave here for Shreveport, Louisiana, headed by Scout Joe Kelly. Active work in the Yanks' new camp is scheduled to start next Monday morning. Manager Miller Huggins, who will go south from his Cincinnati home, believes the 1921 Yanks will capture the pennant and his hopes will be greatly bolstered if Home-Run Baker returns to the team. With Babe Ruth, Bobby Roth and Baker in the batting order, not to mention hitters like Wallie Pipp and Roger Peckinpaugh to back them up, Huggins' team will have a batting array surcharged with "dynamite." But Huggins is counting almost as strongly on his pitchers. When all of the Yankees' hurlers get into camp at Shreveport, the midget manager will have thirteen clubmen to watch.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Newlin Revival

Facing an audience that nearly filled the First Presbyterian church to its capacity Tuesday evening, Dr O A Newlin delivered what many thought was the most impressive sermon of the campaign thus far. The evangelist's theme was "Household Religion" and many in the audience were made to feel that a great lack of the vital things of life was to be found in their homes.

Assisting in the service were Dr Jesse Swank and Rev J Byers Brice. The latter spoke briefly concerning the recent revival at Forest Lawn Presbyterian church which has resulted in more than doubling the original membership of the church.

Plans for the big service next Saturday evening when the "Booster Sunshine Chorus" will put on a program are going on with undiminished interest.

Dr Newlin has announced that next Sunday morning he will preach on "The Crucifixion of Christ" a sermon which those who have heard declare to be the evangelist's strongest and most effective sermon.

Read these important facts about one of the greatest of all energy-producing foods for your children

LEADING food experts will tell you that the food element that gives the greatest amount of energy to the body is just what Karo contains a large percentage of.

This element is Dextrose—the great energy food. You couldn't live long without Dextrose. Most foods you eat—such as bread, starchy vegetables, and all forms of sugar—have to be changed into Dextrose before your system can really use them as energy foods.

These are scientific facts, as any doctor or food expert will tell you.

So Karo, having such a large percentage of Dextrose in it—may almost be called a predigested food. Send for the booklet mentioned below and read the interesting facts.

Yet Karo is much more than a wholesome nutritious food. It is a dainty, relished by every member of the family—on hot biscuits, pancakes or waffles for breakfast; baked in cakes, or used to serve fruit for lunch, or used to sweeten the foods served for supper.

Give the children lots of sliced bread and Karo. It's the most wholesome food you can serve them.

Your Protection

Do not be deceived by cans containing syrup that might look like Karo. The name "Karo" is on every can of original Karo—look for it and be assured of full weight, unadulterated highest quality.

FREE A booklet every parent should read. Tells all about the wonderful food value of Karo; explains the cleansing of Dextrose and why children thrive on it. Sent free with the beautifully illustrated Corn Products Cook Book of fifty-four pages. Write Corn Products Refining Company, Argo, Illinois.

violet rays or something. But then, you wouldn't have thought of buying the thing anyway, would you?"

"Not at that figure," I retorted. "Fifteen thousand dollars for a scant half-acre of land and a house that would have to be restored to make it attractive! I want a home of my own, a real one, but at that price."

"And that other city lot front thing was seventeen thousand," Lillian said thoughtfully. "It strikes me, my dear, that we're in for a hard winter, and the baby has small chance of getting new shoes."

The same premonition of trouble in finding a place to live had occurred to me before I came North. It had been revived and intensified by my experiences of the afternoon. I think Lillian noticed the sudden gravity of my face, for she patted my knee encouragingly.

"Don't you worry, old girl," she said. "We'll find something, somewhere, if it's out on the high seas past the three-mile limit. But I would like to suggest to you that we ought to telephone Dicky pretty soon that we're not going back tonight."

"So we ought," I agreed. "Shall we stop at a drug store, or wait till we get to Mrs. Durkee's?"

"Don't!" she began explosively, then altered her tone and manner. "I'm selfish enough to advise the drug store, for I feel in a most ice-cream-soda-ish mood. And I want to get some bonbons to take to Her Fluffiness. She has the sweetest tooth on this planet, probably on several of the others. If candy is known on the other members of the solar system."

"That will be splendid," I agreed rather absently, I am afraid. "I want to take Marion something also."

But my mind was far from Marion dearly as I love the child. Every bit of my mind not concentrated on my driving was engaged with that explosive "Don't!" of Lillian's.

For some reason she did not wish me to telephone Dicky from Mrs. Durkee's home. Was it because of Edith Fairfax?

WEAK; RUN-DOWN

Carolina Lady Got So She Could Just Drag.—"Cardui Built Me Up," She Declares.

Kernersville, N. C.—In an interesting statement regarding Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Mrs. Wesley Mabe, of near here, recently said: "I have known Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago, I was in a weakened, run-down condition. I became draggy—didn't eat or sleep to do any good; couldn't do anything without a great effort. I tried different remedies and medicines, yet I continued to drag.

"I decided to give Cardui a trial, and found it was just what I really needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous, weak feeling began to leave. Soon I was sleeping good.

"Cardui built me up as no other tonic ever did.

"I used Cardui with one daughter who was puny, felt bad and tired out all the time. It brought her right out, and soon she was as well as a girl could be. We think there is nothing like Cardui."

Do not allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. You may find it just what you really need. For more than 40 years it has been used by thousands and thousands, and found just as Mrs. Mabe describes.

RECIPE TO CLEAR A PIMPLY SKIN

Pimples Are Impurities Seeking an Outlet Through Skin Pores.

Pimples, sores and boils usually result from impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate, then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of hot water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels. It also stimulates the kidneys to normal activity, thus coaxing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent drink which usually makes pimples disappear; cleanses the blood and is excellent for the kidneys as well.—Adv.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

GARIS' BEDTIME STORIES

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE TOOTH PICKS.

[BY HOWARD R. GARIS.]
[Copyright 1931, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

"Here, Uncle Wiggily, this is for you," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy in the hollow stump bungalow one morning.

"What is for me?" asked the bunny rabbit gentleman. "A nice piece of chocolate cake?"

"No, I mean the telephone. This call is for you," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "If I have time, though, I'll make you a chocolate cake."

"Thank you," replied Mr. Longears, and then he went to talk over the wire. A moment later Nurse Jane heard him say, "Dear me! Is that so? I'm sorry! Yes, I'll be right over."

"What's the matter?" asked the muskrat lady. "Is some one ill?"

"It's Baby Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily. "Baby Bunty has been visiting Nannie and Billie Wagtail, the goats. But no one is at home now except Aunt Lettie, and she is trying to take care of Baby Bunty. You know how nervous and fussy Aunt Lettie is."

"I should say I do!" exclaimed Nurse Jane, as she thought of the queer, dear, little old goat lady. "But what is the matter with Baby Bunty?"

"Well, she has a little cold, and Mrs. Wagtail told her to stay in with Aunt Lettie," replied Uncle Wiggily, hanging up the telephone and taking down his tall, silk hat and rheumatism crutch. "But it seems Baby Bunty is fretful and Aunt Lettie wants me to come over and amuse the little rabbit girl."

"And you'll go, of course," said Nurse Jane.

"Of course," answered the bunny. Away he hopped, over the fields and through the woods, and soon he was at the goat house.

"Oh, I'm so glad you've come! I'm so nervous!" bleated Aunt Lettie.

"So'm I glad, but I'm not nervous!" cried Baby Bunty. "Tag! You're it! Let's play leap frog and hide and go seek, Uncle Wiggily! Chase me!" And she danced around, hopping to and fro, until Aunt Lettie put her hoofs over her ears and said:

"Oh, how nervous I am!"

"Now, Baby Bunty, you must quiet down," said the rabbit gentleman, when he saw how fussed Aunt Lettie was. "You and I will have some play fun, and Aunt Lettie can lie down and take a little nap."

"What shall we play?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Toothpicks!" answered Uncle Wiggily.

"Toothpicks? I never heard of such a game!" laughed the little rabbit girl.

"Neither did I," admitted Mr. Longears. "But I just happened to remember that I have, in my pocket, a large box of wooden toothpicks that Toodle and Noodle Flattail, the beaver boys, made for me. We'll play some games with the toothpicks."

"I don't see how you can," objected Baby Bunty.

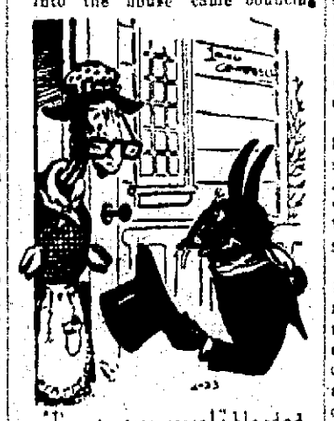
But Uncle Wiggily knew many toothpick games. He spread the little pieces of wood out on the table, and began making a little Indian tepee, or house, standing the toothpicks together like an ice cream cone turned upside down.

"Oh, how nice!" cried Baby Bunty. Then she made a little Indian house. After that Uncle Wiggily showed her how to make a sort of pig pen with the little sticks; how to make a bridge and how to lay the picks flat on the table in the shape of a house, with windows, doors, chimneys and all.

"Oh, toothpicks are lots of fun," cried Baby Bunty.

"And so are Uncle Wiggily's ears!" cried a harsh voice suddenly.

Into the house came bounding



"I'm so nervous!" bleated Aunt Lettie.

the bad old Bear for Uncle Wiggily had forgotten to lock the door after him, when Aunt Lettie went to lie down.

"I want Uncle Wiggily's ears!" growled the Bear.

"Well, you can't have them!" cried Baby Bunty. Then, catching up a paw full of sharp toothpicks Bunty scratched them so hard on the soft and tender nose of the bad Bear that he howled and growled and yowled.

"Oh, I didn't know toothpicks were so sharp!" grumbled the bear, as he ran out, not getting a single teeny, tiny snitch of the bunny's ears.

"Thank you for saving me, Baby Bunty," said Mr. Longears. Then he and the rabbit girl made a trolley car of the toothpicks and had lots of fun and Aunt Lettie soon got over being nervous.

JUBILEE'S PARDNER

by Judd Mortimer Lewis

Illustrations by Edmins

I bet Annabel Lee has got the heaves sure enough. She breathes awful hard, and I bet my mother has a doctor she will go and have a regular doctor instead of a horse doctor, and then where will we be? She thinks I do not know anything. I snuck a look at her licks this morning while my mother was getting breakfast, but she has not got any spavins or anything. Our horse has not got heaves so I don't know where she got it, but he has got a spavin. I wish she was all right, because she is a cute little bugger even if she is a sister instead of a brother, and I don't have to take care of her so very much.

When school had called and Younliss had turned up her nose at me and smiled at Frenchy, our teacher, Jonesy, said: "What great lesson do we learn from the life of George Washington? Thomas Aristides, you may answer."

So I stood in the ile and put my heels together and one hand behind my back and said: "We learn from the life of George Washington that short pants can not keep a good man down." Then everybody hollered and Jonesy said she would hear the class in spelling.

At recess when we were out in the yard Younliss stood up on something on her side so that her head come over the fence and she smiled at Frenchy and told him hello, and he looked at me and seen the look I was giving him and he said to her: "Please do not smile at me. I do not want you smiling at me." She said, "I was not smiling at you, I was laughing at you." Then we all gave him the laugh, and I laughed so much harder than any of the others, and then she smiled at me. She might know that I did not tip her off of my sled on purpose.

Peanuts knows where there is some apples buried and so do the rest of us, because he showed us, but the man that owns them was hanging around so we did not dig into them.

My grandfather was counting his fish hooks when I got home and I asked him if he wanted me to dig him some worms, and he said he didn't. He said he dug some in the winter once and had to straighten them out with a hammer like they was bent nails. I can't help being surprised that George Washington was the father of his country. It must seem funny to see the father of anything wearing short pants.

Nils said Jubilee was not as tough

"We learn from the life of George Washington that short pants can not keep a good man down."

as his dog because Jubilee sleeps in a bed, but Jubilee can lick his dog so I should worry, and I can lick him. I do not think Butch will run away from home because of the licking he got. The time to run away from home is just before you get a licking, not afterwards.

POLICE COURT

Columbus Auto Stolen

The local police received a call from Columbus Tuesday evening asking them to be on the lookout for a Packard touring car with Ohio license No. 107,747, that was stolen at that place.

Bicycle Frame Found.

The frame of the new Envoy bicycle which was stolen Saturday evening from Warren Starner, was found Tuesday afternoon it having been discarded in the yard at the rear of No. 224 Pleasant street. The thieves are believed to have stolen another wheel at some time and took this means of making a bicycle that they could get away with it.

Market Opening

New York, Feb. 23.—Reports that the district attorney would be asked to investigate the sharp declines suffered in Atlantic Gulf and West Indies for the past week led to a rush of shorts in that issue, to cover, at the opening of the market today.

ERIE EMERGENCY FUND ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

They Are Elected at Annual Meeting—Report

The annual meeting of the Erie Emergency Fund Association held Monday evening, with financial statement since February 1, 1919 was made by P. J. Sterling secretary. The report was very good, showing 320 members in good standing. The amount received during that period was $6,397.05 and included dues and special assessments. The expenditures amounted to $5,495.58 including $5,000 paid in death benefits. There have been thirty-three deaths since 1919. The officers elected for the ensuing year are E. L. Trott, president; J. J. Ryan, vice president; B. J. Sterling secretary and treasurer; A. L. Ireland, J. W. Posegerrs, Dennis Barber, F. S. Price and James Sheridan, trustees.

NO WEATHER GRUMBLERS TO BE FOUND IN CITY

'Tis Just a Typical March Day in February.

Where the fellow—man woman or child—that can't find something to grumble about this day?

What if there have been snow flurries and the wind a little sharp? Where is there a person so filled with the spirit of ingratitude as to say one word against it? Indeed the Star's star weather-observing reporter with his weather eye ever alert has not been able to see any one with such a grouch in his system and therefore there is only one conclusion.

Marionites are pretty good scouts. Today's weather wasn't really February weather, you know. It was a typical March day.

A REAL NOVELTY

Joe Ryan is a distinct type—he is like no other star on the screen today. Born in the West, reared on the range, a cow-puncher before he ever thought of motion pictures, he is THE ONE star for a slashing Western serial such as "The Purple Riders."

See Ryan ride in this new serial—see the chances he took to thrill you. Here's a chance to view Joe Ryan unleashed, a chance for action with the lid off. Joe's got a horse in this serial that will reach the heights of prominence before the fifteenth episode—just watch this cayuse cavort! And—by the way—Joe Ryan proves that a real cowboy he-man can be a real lover, on occasion.

AN AEROPLANE WRECKS BOYS' KITES IN LANDING

Engine Trouble Causes Plane To Descend.

Yesterday about 4 o'clock aeroplane A. E. 63597, enroute from Cleveland to Dayton carrying a pilot and mechanician, was compelled by engine trouble to land in a field on Reed avenue between Indiana and Mt. Vernon avenues. After some slight adjustments the plane renewed its flight making its getaway by circling.

The pilot had difficulty in finding a landing and circled the south part of the city three or four times before locating the field in which the landing was made.

An incident of the landing was the destruction of a number of kites belonging to small boys who were flying them near the field.
